

Literature, Vol. 6: January 6 to June 30, 1900 (Classic Reprint)

Excerpt from Literature, Vol. 6: January 6 to June 30, 1900 When books of an avowedly military nature - such as this one - are penned by civilians, even that accommodating and aedulous person, the general reader, is apt to regard their technical correctness with a certain measure of suspicion. In the case of Mr. F. Norrey Connells How Sowinne Flour (bowden. 3e. His natural distrust will not be altogether misplaced. The authors prophetic account of A Battle of the Future will make military men smile. In his preface, however, Mr. Connell very sensibly declares that his volume is not meant for professional soldiers. L888 critical persons will derive some interest, if no very great amount of authentic instruction, from it.
